

Dear Pinterest Hiring Team,

I am excited to apply for the Project Manager Apprenticeship program at Pinterest. As an entrepreneur launching WebVex, a web development agency, I bring hands-on project management experience and genuine passion for Pinterest's mission of inspiring creativity.

Why Pinterest: Pinterest's ability to bridge inspiration with action resonates with my journey exploring humanity and technology through The Digital Ethos (now WebVex Blog). Your platform's focus on enhancing human creativity aligns perfectly with my values.

Project Management Experience: Over three months, I've led WebVex's launch from concept to market-ready, demonstrating key PM skills:

- Strategic Planning: Managed multi-phase timeline with June 2025 launch target and contingency planning
- System Integration: Coordinated 10+ platforms (Stripe, Mailchimp, Buffer, Notion, EmailJS) into cohesive operations
- Process Optimization: Implemented automation for client communication and workflows
- Stakeholder Management: Balanced relationships with potential co-founders, partners, and clients

Technical Foundation: My web development background and platform expertise enable effective communication between technical teams and business stakeholders, crucial for Pinterest's collaborative environment.

Brand Strategy: Evolved The Digital Ethos into WebVex Blog, demonstrating strategic content planning and brand consistency skills valuable for Pinterest's product initiatives.

Commitment: My entrepreneurial journey has taught me to be resourceful and proactive. I don't just complete tasks, I identify opportunities and drive meaningful outcomes. This mindset, combined with my deep appreciation for Pinterest's culture, positions me to contribute from day one.

I'm excited to bring my project management experience and technical skills to Pinterest's apprenticeship program. The opportunity to work on projects inspiring millions while learning from your world-class team perfectly aligns with my passion for technology and creativity.

Thank you for your consideration. I'd welcome discussing how my hands-on experience can contribute to Pinterest's success.

Sincerely,

Diana Lima
